"PRLab created content that even won a prize for us. Their understanding of our philosophy resulted in great content and top tier coverage. The team delivered on time and was responsive, demonstrating professionalism, and attentiveness."

Natalie Dzigciot
Communications Director, CoreZero

 Meltwater

"PRLab increased our share of voice and helped us become thought leaders in our space, which resulted in many new clients. The number of high-tier media coverage impressed us."

Frida Fors Wallsbeck
Marketing Manager Nordics, Meltwater

Establish thought leadership and foster trust in the digital landscape

In the competitive and saturated digital space, relying solely on press releases via wires won't suffice. What you need is a robust thought leadership strategy to carve out your position as an industry leader. This approach is crucial for building trust among key stakeholders, including investors, partners, and clients in the realm of digital PR.

Boost your online presence with our strategic digital PR process

Our approach is proactive, not reactive. We actively seek out opportunities to get your brand into the digital news landscape, instead of waiting for them to come to us.

1 Research & data

We conduct a solid media and competitor analysis to come up with data points to understand where to position you and optimize those stories for traffic and domain authority. We carefully select the outlets that will have the biggest impact on your organization and optimize the strategy for that.

2 Understanding your audience

We delve into audience interests, habits, and demographics to construct targeted content that will strike a chord. Segment your audience and personalize to each group, making a campaign connect with the right people with the right message, driving engagement and establishing authority in your industry.

3 Lean brainstorming & strategy ideation

Our team of experts will come up with a number of different approaches to your specific PR campaign. We explore the stories we need to tell, and provide you with options on the ways to tell these stories. We will look at your preferences and pick the approach that best suits your company's needs.

4 Editorial content & PR calendar

Campaign ideas have different characteristics, with some focusing on the idea or content and others on the values of your company. The campaign with the potential for a return on investment will be sought and we will present these KPIs based on your goals, and once we get your approval, we move on.

5 Execution and iteration

Now that your content is up and running, it is time to pass it to relevant media outlets that will publish it for your target audience. Our wide network of connections with outlets and journalists allows us to pick the most relevant platforms for your content and the industry in which you operate.

6 Analysis and iteration

It is important to pick the right outlets since a campaign is a long-term story that will be maintained and followed up on. The right journalists are essential, and we ensure we get you in the perfect outlet for your needs. We examine the results that brought solid impact and iterate accordingly.

What our customers have to say

Honest feedback from customers who trust us—see why!

"We received over 50 featured articles and publications in the press. PRLab helped raise awareness for our project and provided many high-quality backlinks. PRLab also acquired multiple comment slots for our CEO and CTO."

Joshua Bell
SVP of Marketing, NuPay

"PRLab was able to get several stories published, bringing Splashtop closer to our goals. The organized team led regular meetings and utilized various tools to keep track of the results and ongoing tasks. Their efficiency, excellent follow-through, and structured approach definitely stood out."

Daniela Itro
Head of PR, Splashtop

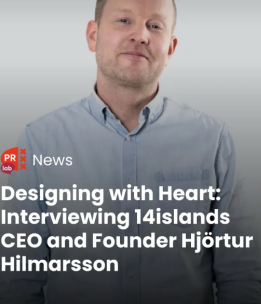

"I really appreciated that throughout our collaboration, the PRLab team really felt like part of our own team. That is not something common when working with external agencies. They were always available for us, friendly and professional."

Monica Cioviță
Community Marketer, Recuitee
